THE GUTSY INNOVATOR

gutsy: showing courage, determination and spirit

We're THE newsletter obsessed with activating the creative spirit of nurses to transform health care.

November 2022

Hi Nurse Innovator,

Did you know research has shown that gratitude positively enhances empathy and enables more creative and flexible thinking, while simultaneously building relationships and strengthening social bonds? (Moskowitz, 2000) (Emmons, 2003) All are key aspects of design and innovation, supported by psychological safety!

Gratitude is derived from the Latin word “gratia,” which means graciousness, grace, or gratefulness. We're grateful for the skill, knowledge, commitment, and creativity nurses across our country deploy to support and care for their communities.

Historically, nurses have stepped in to care for all who need it, provided treatment to those with limited means, launched national organizations to care for soldiers after war, and reached out to those needing care in the most rural settings. The world is a better place because of the everyday actions of you and your fellow nurses – you're meeting people where they are to provide the resources they need. We see you! What is making you feel safe or grateful? What solutions are you designing?

Thankful for you, Ori, Lois, and Olivia

ANA INNOVATION SANDBOX

We help seed the early-stage ideas of nurses and their innovations.

Nurses provide excellent care, continually adapt to the dynamic health care environment, and create new and innovative thinking to address health care challenges. Are you a nurse or nursing student with a budding idea? Check out the ANA Innovation Sandbox, which provides micro-funding to support the very early-stage ideas of nurses and pre-licensure nursing students.
